The Toronto Globs declares that "the exit of President Harrison excites no regrets in Canada." Certainly not. President Harrison administered his office for the benefit of the United States and not of foreigners. +

Myra Clark Gaines left an estate worth $122,000 when she died in 1887. The lawyers have absorbed $900,000 of it in fighting over her will, and hope to be able to get away with the remainder in the new trial which they have just commenced. +

Under the reciprocity treaty with Spain our export trade with Cubs in-creased in one year from $10,000,700 to $10,789,014. The trade in breadstuffs in-creased more than 300 per cent. Of course, the Democratic war on the "robber Tariff" must include the "reciprocity fraud." 4

The last Democratic House appropriated $1,027,000,100—the bighest record The preceding House, of what was known in last fall's campaign as the "Billion-dollar Congress," appropriated $88,000,000—addirence of $89,000,000. Therefore, the Democratic howl about a "Billion-dollar Congress" will remain bushed. +

Tares, except for revenue, are unjusti-dable, says Mr. Cleveland's Inaugural. Then the tax on state bank currency is unjustifiable. It is the one tax au-torized by Federal law whose object is wholly distinct from revenue considera-tions. It is the only barrier between the people and depreciated money, but it usues be repeaded according to Mr. Cleve-land's express declaration.

The gift of twenty acres of land on Jamestown Island, embracing the old historic burial grounds and church ruins, is a thoughtful and patiotic act on the part of the donor, the owner of the property. The Society for the Preservation of Virginian Antiquities is another the custodian of this vestige of the first peranaent English settlement in the United States, and will take early steps to protect and improve it. No spot in the United States, and will take carry steps to protect and improve it. No spot in the Cuited States, possesses more romanic memories, and it is a public duty to receive and preserve such places, so full of valuable teachings, from decay.

During his recent visit to New York Joseph Jefferson had occasion to have a check cashed. The bank was in Fifth avenue, but the Cashier did not know Mr. Jefferson and refused to cash the order until its bearer was identified. The distinguished comedian could not spare time to go in search of somebody to vouch for him and he exclaimed rusfully. "Off mein tawg Schneider vas here I dinks he vood know me." At the sound of these familiar yet odd accents the bookkeeper, who had recently enjoyed the performance of "Rip Van Winkle," turned around in his chair, gazed amilingly on Mr. Jefferson, and immediately identified him to the satisfaction of the paying teller.

The oldest Postmaster in the service, according to Marshall Cushing in his book, "The Story of our Postoffice," is Roswell Beardsley at North Lansing, N. Y. Mr. Beardsley was appointed during the administration of President John Quiacy Adams in 1888. He is now 89 years old, and has held office consecutively for sixty-five years. It is hardly necessary to add that he is a Democrat, "During all these years." and Mr. Cushing, "Mr. Beardsley has conducted his office to the entire satisfaction of the public, and he has never been reprimanded for failure to perform his duties. The has never been in Washington. The office now pays $170 a year. The first year of his service hip say was $19.53.

4 "Praident Cleveland," says a promi-nat physician, "differs from the majority of corpulent men in one respect. He does not appear to have a lazy bone in his body. Ordinarily a man of Mr. Cleveland's proportions is fond of his seas and possesses a sluggish tempera-ment. Mr. Cleveland seems to revel in work as is evidend by his turning out at 7 o'clock in the morning and remaining at his desk until long after midnight. No one can accuse the Praident of lazhness. But he le very foolish to go contrary to all the laws of health as he has done. I all the laws of health as he has done. It will resture to say that not one man ln a thousand could have safely risked the exposure Mr. Clevaland had subjected himself to on the day of his linauguration. To medical most his remaining uncovered for any length of time in a raging blistard was a foolinary ast. The strongest constitution will break down under such treatment. Mr. Clevrland has arrived at a time of the when it behouves him to be careful of his health."

Senator Hill Makes a Call on President Cleveland.

The Two Were Closeted Together for Fully Twenty Minutes.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Senator Hill called at the executive mansion Thursday and was closeted with President Cleveland for 20 minutes. The one great feature of interest in political circles Thursday was this visit to his greatest political virual. Senator Hill came to the white house Thursday. his was more than a mere perfunctory call is attested by the length of the interview. It leads the length of the interview. It leads the length of the interview. It leads to the leads to the cabinet room.

Mr. Hill came early. The great flood of office-seekers had not begun to flow into the white house when he arrived. He passed rapidly through the hall-way in the public part of the mannion to the room effectly had been posted, for he usbered Mr. Hill into the adjoining creentive office without a moment's delay.

When Mr. Hill entered the president's room word was seen to Doorleesper Leeffer that Mr. Circuland was very visitors for some time. As a consequence, the arriving delegations soon filled the cabinet room, and by the time Mr. Hill left the white house there were more men than seats in the apartment.

Mr. Hill left the white house there were more men than seats in the apartment. The interview was, of course, of a strictly private character, but from the fact that it had been previously arranged and from its length there mere official call. Mr. Hill, by virtue of his office as senator from the state of New York, would be obliged by the unwritten code of official stiquents to call on a new president elected by his party unless the personal relations between the two were of such a character as to make a personal visit seem like hyporriay.
